Marketing and Christian Proclamation in Theological Perspective Emily Beth Hill, 2021-06-28 In today's market-driven world, the contemporary church faces pressing questions as it continues to be formed by the powerful forces of neoliberal capitalism. This book builds on theological examinations of capitalism and consumerism to develop a theology of marketing that addresses two key questions: First, even though church marketing seems to help churches grow amidst a climate of declining church affiliation, should the church use it? Second, considering the church's indistinguishability from culture in relation to consumption, how should Christians relate to material goods? To address these questions, Emily Beth Hill develops a framework that draws on the concrete practices of marketing, such as focus groups, big data, branding, and advertising, and the trajectory of their use over time, along with Martin Luther's theology of the Word. Combining Martin Luther's pro me for me theology with marketing concepts, Hill shows that while marketing and the gospel have formal pro me similarities, materially they are quite different: marketing operates as a word of law, distinct from the effective, liberating word of the gospel proclaimed for us, and thus the two produce different human identities. While existing examinations of capitalism primarily rely on theologies and discourses of desire, Hill reveals that a theology of the Word illuminates a fruitful new area for reflection on how the church can resist the deformations of capitalism.

Kanuk,Havard Hansen,2011-10-07 The second European edition of Schiffman and Kanuk s classic Consumer Behaviour focuses not only on what consumers buy but also why they buy when they buy where they buy how they evaluate their purchase and how they ultimately dispose of it The text has been thoroughly adapted and revised to reflect European conditions and to focus attention on critical concepts in consumer behaviour The authors discuss the effects of family social class culture and subculture on the decision making process and by taking a psychological approach illuminate the ways in which marketers apply the principles of consumer behaviour to the development and implementation of marketing strategies
