About Sustaining Supply Technology for Manned Spacecraft Christian Zschoch,2020-02-19 At the present time space travel is characterized by separately developed technologies of the space traveling nations Depending on fixed financial budgets and expensive technology companies the developed spaceships are strongly designed just for a specific mission profile in order to reduce costs and risks as far as possible Because of their less sustainable supply concept these spacecraft allow only a limited mission duration and require regular supply deliveries in addition On the other hand side mission periods continue to lengthen with the planned exploration of Mars asteroids or other objects that are even more distant These missions will require high sustainable supply concepts in order to enable autonomous and long term life support of human mission participants The now existing solutions do not yet meet these requirements so the current approach of spacecraft design had to undergo a conceptual review The research made in the context of this work led to the design of a new generation of spacecraft which supports with its optimized hull construction such extended long term missions in terms of durability variability and life support All its embedded biological and chemical processes have on the one hand the primary aim to enable humans a long stay in space and on the other hand to be independent of an external mission supply The performed research activities also included the necessary mechanical and energetical functions for which an extreme lifetime extension of up to 60 years was aimed
