Clause And Effect Prolog Programming For The Working Programmer:

Clause and Effect William F. Clocksin,2012-12-06 This book is for people who have done some programming either in Prolog or in a language other than Prolog and who can find their way around a reference manual The emphasis of this book is on a simplified and disciplined methodology for discerning the mathematical structures related to a problem and then turning these structures into Prolog programs This book is therefore not concerned about the particular features of the language nor about Prolog programming skills or techniques in general A relatively pure subset of Prolog is used which includes the cut but no input output no assert retract no syntactic extensions such as if then else and grammar rules and hardly any built in predicates apart from arithmetic operations I trust that practitioners of Prolog programming who have a particular interest in the finer details of syntactic style and language features will understand my purposes in not discussing these matters The presentation which I believe is novel for a Prolog programming text is in terms of an outline of basic concepts interleaved with worksheets The idea is that worksheets are rather like musical exercises Carefully graduated in scope each worksheet introduces only a limited number of new ideas and gives some guidance for practising them The principles introduced in the worksheets are then applied to extended examples in the form of case studies

Foundations of Semantic Web Technologies Pascal Hitzler,Markus Krotzsch,Sebastian Rudolph,2009-08-06 Thoroughly covering basic introductions and intuitions technical details and formal foundations this text focuses on the established foundations in this area that have become relatively stable over time It presents the latest developments in Semantic Web standards including RDF RDF Schema OWL 2 RIF and SPARQL It also explores formal semantics OWL querying the relationship between rules and OWL and ontology engineering and applications Computational Modelling of Robot Personhood and Relationality William F. Clocksin,2023-10-16 This SpringerBrief is a computational study of significant concerns and their role in forming long term relationships between intelligent entities Significant concerns include attitudes preferences affinities and values that are held to be highly valued and meaningful The means through which a person may find deeply held identity purpose and transformation Significant concerns always engage the emotions and senses in a way that simply holding an opinion may or may not For example experiencing a significant concern may provoke deep feelings of awe and wonder in a way that deciding what to have for lunch probably does not even if the lunch decision involves a rich array of preferences and values Significant concerns also include what Emmons has called ultimate concerns The author builds upon this base by considering the hypothetical case of intelligence in androids An android is defined as a human like robot that humans would accept as equal to humans in how they perform and behave in society An android as defined in this book is not considered to be imitating a human nor is its purpose to deceive humans into believing that it is a human Instead the appropriately programmed android self identifies as a non human with its own integrity as a person Therefore a computational understanding of personhood and how persons whether human or android participate in relationships is essential to this perspective on artificial intelligence Computational Modelling of Robot Personhood and Relationality describes in technical detail an implementation of a computational model called Affinity that takes the form of a simulation of a population of entities that form maintain and break relationships with each other depending upon a rich range of values motivations attitudes and beliefs Future experimentation and improvements of this model may be used not only to gain a wider understanding of human persons but may also form a preliminary cognitive model of the reasoning process of an android
