Getting to the Core of Literacy for History/Social Studies, Science, and Technical Subjects, Grades 6-12 Vicky Giouroukakis, Maureen Connolly, 2013-05-14 Literacy is not just for English teachers anymore The new Common Core English Language Arts Standards aren't just for English teachers Fluent reading and writing are critically important to the study of history social studies science and technical subjects too What's more the progress your students make is directly tied to their ability to process information they read and to express their ideas in writing So how do you make literacy a focus of your teaching without taking time away from essential content This practical resource packed with teacher tested CCSS based sample lessons shows you how using the Backward Design approach to set and meet your goals Each lesson template includes The teaching strategies you'll utilize Ways to incorporate technology and media Variations for differentiation and interdisciplinary connections Links to the work of major educational theorists Following these models you'll set the CCSS in your sights and develop lessons that both meet standards and fit your classroom Before you know it you'll be infusing reading and writing across your curriculum in purposeful and meaningful ways Truth and Fiction in Tim O'Brien's "The things they carried" Larissa Pörtl, 2016-09-05 Seminar paper from the year 2011 in the subject American Studies Literature grade 2-7 University of Mannheim Anglistisches Seminar course In Times of Crisis Representations of War in American Literature and Film from the Civil War to Iraq language English abstract In the book The things they carried by Tim O'Brien the narrator says that a good war story is never true He admits that nearly everything in the book is made up after saying that it is true before However the reader learns that not until the 7th chapter in which O'Brien the narrator tells the reader that everything up to now has been invented Similarly he leaves open if some things are true or not Even the narrator who is named like the author himself is made up and has no or little similarity to the author e.g. the author O'Brien does not have a daughter whereas the narrator O'Brien does. Reading The Things They Carried, a question keeps coming up again and again: Why does he do that? Why does Tim O'Brien the narrator constantly tell the reader that everything is made up? It does not make any sense. The reader just gets confused. In addition to this question, I found myself wondering if there was a clear difference between truth and fiction in the book, namely if you could say this is true and this is untrue and this is certain and this is uncertain. And if yes, was it O'Brien's intention to draw this clear line or did it just happen by accident? Of course, one cannot know everything for certain and no one can look into O'Brien's brain, but you can make assumptions based on the knowledge you have. In my paper, I will focus mainly on the aspect why the principle of truth and fiction is used in The Things They Carried and which effects come out of that. I think this is very interesting because, in my opinion, this is the main aspect of the whole book. Someone who reads it will not be able to stop themselves from asking questions in their head. The main process while reading is that you just keep asking yourself these questions again and again and you cannot find any answer to them. My goal, however, is not to find any answers but to try to explain this aspect of truth and fiction as a whole and to examine what it might contribute to describe the Vietnam war.
