Davis, 1972 Biology in Context Eileen Kennedy, Peter Hickman, 2002 Free Choice in and Out of Context Evangelia Vlachou, 2007 It has often been argued that Free Choice Items FCIs are Polarity Items Consequently we have analyzed FCI distribution in terms of the conditions of licensing and anti licensing Based on French Greek and English data I defend the hypothesis that this approach is not correct FCIs have a very strong lexical semantics They express widening indiscriminacy indifference ignorance indistinguishability and low level Since all the readings of FCIs can be pragmatically blocked in all contexts I propose that the distribution of FCIs is entirely free with the exception of certain cases in which we have semantic blocking Cognitive Architectures Maria Isabel Aldinhas Ferreira, João Silva Sequeira, Rodrigo Ventura, 2018-09-03 This book provides an integrated framework for natural and artificial cognition by highlighting the fundamental role played by the cognitive architecture in the dialectics with the surrounding environment and consequently in the definition of a particular meaningful world This book is also about embodied and non embodied artificial systems cognitive architectures that are human constructs meant to be able to populate the human world capable of identifying different life contexts and replicating human patterns of behavior capable of acting according to human values and conventions systems that perform tasks in a human like way By identifying the essential phenomena at the core of all forms of cognition the book addresses the topic of design of artificial cognitive architectures in the domains of robotics and artificial life Moving from mere bio inspired design methodology it aims to open a pathway to semiotically determined design

Context American Association for the Advancement of Science, 1979 Dynamics in Action Alicia Juarrero, 2002-01-25

What is the difference between a wink and a blink The answer is important not only to philosophers of mind for significant moral and legal consequences rest on the distinction between voluntary and involuntary behavior However action theory the branch of philosophy that has traditionally articulated the boundaries between action and non action and between voluntary and involuntary behavior has been unable to account for the difference Alicia Juarrero argues that a mistaken 350 year old model of cause and explanation one that takes all causes to be of the push pull efficient cause sort and all explanation to be prooflike underlies contemporary theories of action Juarrero then proposes a new framework for conceptualizing causes based on complex adaptive systems Thinking of causes as dynamical constraints makes bottom up and top down causal relations including those involving intentional causes suddenly tractable A different logic for explaining actions as historical narrative not inference follows if one adopts this novel approach to long standing questions of action and responsibility

Competition Policy and Patent Law under Uncertainty Geoffrey A. Manne, Joshua D. Wright, 2011-06-13 The regulation of innovation and the optimal design of legal institutions in an environment of uncertainty are two of the most important policy challenges of the twenty first century Innovation is critical to economic growth Regulatory design decisions and in particular competition policy and intellectual property regimes can have profound consequences for economic growth However remarkably little is known about the relationship between innovation competition and regulatory policy Any legal regime must attempt to assess the trade offs associated with rules that will affect incentives to innovate allocative efficiency competition and freedom of economic actors to commercialize the fruits of their innovative labors The essays in this book approach this critical set of problems from an economic perspective relying on the tools of microeconomics quantitative analysis and comparative institutional analysis to explore and begin to provide answers to the myriad challenges facing policymakers
