Constituting Our Constitution Constituting Ourselves:

Max Scheler in Dialogue Susan Gottlöber, 2022-05-18 This volume explores Max Scheler's role within the philosophical and sociological debates of his time into the 21st century. Scheler was an interpreter, a transmitter of, and respondent to the philosophical and sociological tradition. He was an interlocutor for his contemporaries and an inspiration for subsequent and current debates in philosophy, psychology, and political thought. Both young and established scholars shed light on central and less investigated aspects of Scheler's thought such as the question of moral facts, personal individuality, cosmopolitanism, and opportunities for intercultural understanding. The contributors delve into Scheler's influence on thinkers such as Tischner or Løgstrup as well as his role as a key figure within Catholic thought. The book appeals to students and researchers while exploring how engaging with Scheler can benefit contemporary debates on embodiment, psychopathology, and value pluralism.

Progressive Constitutionalism Robin West, 1994 The Fourteenth Amendment guarantees all citizens equal protection under the law as well as immunity from laws that deprive them of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. In Progressive Constitutionalism, Robin West develops an interpretation of this amendment that contrasts with the views of conservative and liberal of the Rehnquist, Burger, and Warren Courts, and with the radical antiliberalist account provided by the critical legal studies movement and many prominent feminist and critical race theorists. Her interpretation consists of a substantive argument regarding the Amendment's core meaning and a jurisprudential argument regarding the role of the courts and Congress in fulfilling the Amendment's progressive promise. West shows how the equal protection clause far from insulating the private spheres of culture, market, and home life as is commonly held, directly targets abuses of power within those spheres. She develops a number of arguments for the modern relevance of this understanding from the failure of the state to provide equal protection against private domestic violence, permitting a private sovereignty of patriarchal power within the home to the state's failure to provide equal protection against material deprivation, allowing private sovereignty between economically privileged and desperate people in private markets. West's argument extends to the liberty prong of the due process clause, seen here as a protection of the positive, not negative, liberty of citizens covering rights in such typically controversial areas as welfare, education, and domestic safety. This interpretation recasts a number of contemporary constitutional issues such as affirmative action and hate speech and points to very different problems, notably private unchecked criminal violence and extreme economic deprivation, as the central constitutional dilemmas of our day. Progressive Constitutionalism urges a substantive institutional and jurisprudential reorientation of our understanding of the Fourteenth Amendment, one that would necessarily be pursued through Congressional rather than judicial channels. In doing so, with attention to history and both feminist and critical race scholarship, it should reinvigorate our politics and our constitutional conversations and perhaps point us toward a more just society.

School Choice Alan Wolfe, 2009-02-09 School choice has lately risen to the top of the list of potential solutions to America's educational problems, particularly for the poor and the most disadvantaged members of society Indeed in the last few years several states have held referendums on the use of vouchers in private and parochial schools and more recently the Supreme Court reviewed the constitutionality of a scholarship program that uses vouchers issued to parents While there has been much debate over the empirical and methodological aspects of school choice policies discussions related to the effects such policies may have on the nation s moral economy and civil society have been few and far between School Choice a collection of essays by leading philosophers historians legal scholars and theologians redresses this situation by addressing the moral and normative side of school choice The twelve essays commissioned for a conference on school choice that took place at Boston College in 2001 are organized into four sections that consider the relationship of school choice to equality moral pluralism institutional ecology and constitutionality Each section consists of three essays followed by a critical response The contributors are Patrick McKinley Brennan Charles L Glenn Amy Gutmann David Hollenbach S J Meira Levinson Sanford Levinson Stephen Macedo John T McGreevy Martha Minow Richard J Mouw Joseph O Keefe S J Michael J Perry Nancy L Rosenblum Rosemary C Salomone Joseph P Viteritti Paul J Weithman and Alan Wolfe
