

Module 1 – Drawing Set Organization

1.1 SHEET IDENTIFICATION

The sheet identification format typically used in traditional construction drawing sets uses a consistent set of sheet numbers, including drawing, and different sheet numbers to identify and organize sheets. These techniques have also provided an opportunity to expand the use of the sheet identifier. Accordingly, the sheet identification format is a key part of V5.0.

1.1.1 Standard Sheet Identification

The sheet identification format is applicable to both manual and CAD drawings. It is consistent with standards set forth through Part 4 of this guide for project teams. The V5.0 sheet identification format standard uses consistent sheet numbering as follows:

- 1. The drawing designer, consisting of one alphanumeric character and a hyphen or two alphanumeric characters.
- 2. The sheet type identifier, consisting of one numerical character.
- 3. The sheet sequence number, consisting of two numerical characters.

The use of the drawing designer identifier identifies the sheet as a member of a project. A sheet type identifier identifies the type information on the sheet is followed by the sheet sequence number.

Regarding the use of sheet sequence numbers, V5.0 allows two levels of sheet identification. Below is a list of examples of the sheet numbers used to identify sheets at the presentation of the drawings. Level 1 offers the simplest sheet numbering format and would be suitable for all but the most complex projects. Level 2 provides guidance for complex or special types of projects. Refer to V5.0 Appendix A – Drawing Designer, V5.0 Appendix B – Examples of Sheet Numbers for examples of the two levels of sheet identification.

Note that the hyphen in the Level 1 drawing designer ID is located after the hyphen in the sequence of the second character. The hyphen is preferred rather than an electrical zero due to the use of the “0” character in the sequence. Accordingly, an underscore may be used to replace the hyphen when appropriate regarding complex sheet set sheet numbers in the future.

1.1.2 Drawing Designer

The first component of the sheet identification format, the drawing designer, is based on the numbering system of architectural drawing designers, which offers a single alphanumeric character and a hyphen (and two or two alphanumeric characters) used to:

The drawing designer format allows the category of project matter contained on the sheet to be the same as that project.
