Knowledge, Productivity, and Innovation in Nigeria Ismail Radwan, Giulia Pellegrini, 2010-03-09 Nigeria has a bold national vision of becoming one of the world s top 20 economies by 2020 However despite being the 8th most populous country in the world it ranks 41st in terms of GDP and 161st in terms of GDP per capita Nigeria has long depended on oil for its exports and government revenues This dependence has led to rent seeking and a reluctance to examine potential avenues for economic diversification The authors of Knowledge Productivity and Innovation in Nigeria believe that the goal of becoming a top twenty economy can only be achieved if Nigeria makes the transition to a new economy rooted in the 21st century that harnesses the power of knowledge and avoids a static oil based growth strategy Knowledge has always been central to development but new technologies have made it globally accessible Countries such as the Republic of South Korea India and the United States that have exploited new technologies and know how have pushed their innovation and productivity frontiers Countries that have failed to do so risk remaining mired in poverty In order to achieve Vision 2020 Nigeria must move beyond the stop start patterns of oil based development that have characterized it since independence It must create a stable and prosperous economy based on a critical mass of knowledge workers Knowledge Productivity and Innovation in Nigeria examines how Nigeria can prepare for this century and where its leaders can focus to achieve their vision presenting the experiences of other countries from which Nigeria can learn

Underlying Dimensions of Knowledge Assessment Derek H.C. Chen,2016 The Knowledge Assessment Methodology KAM database measures variables that may be used to assess the readiness of countries for the knowledge economy and has many policy uses Formal analysis using KAM data is faced with the problem of which variables to choose and why Rather than make these decisions in an ad hoc manner the authors recommend factor analytic methods to distill the information contained in the many KAM variables into a smaller set of factors Their main objective is to quantify the factors for each country and to do so in a way that allows comparisons of the factor scores over time The authors investigate both principal components as well as true factor analytic methods and emphasize simple structures that help provide a clear political economic meaning of the factors but also allow comparisons over time
