Rigorous and modern now with calculus integrated into the main text Intermediate Microeconomics with Calculus: A Modern Approach Varian, Hal R., 2016-04-29 From Google s chief economist Varian s best selling intermediate microeconomics texts are revered as some of the best in the field And now students can work problems online with Smartwork5 Norton s online homework system packaged at no additional charge with the Media Update Editions In addition to online homework the texts now include four color graphs and new interactive animations Airline Microeconomics Tony Webber, 2022-07-25 This book presents readers with a technical tool kit to understand the economics of airlines It starts by covering the key language and glossary of the air travel business which is necessary for graduates or first time employees in aviation to understand the content of conversations meetings presentations and internal aviation communications It then breaks down the complexity of the demand side of the air travel business The book then analyses revenue over two distinct time horizons specifically the short and medium runs recognising the fact that airlines operate to a fixed number of seats over a short horizon because of the way that they schedule services in advance of departure By combining revenue and costs the book then analyses airline profit with a focus on the short run and medium run decision variables that maximise airline profit The remainder of the book analyses various important topics in air transport economics including competition in airline markets key rules regulations and taxes that affect the return on capital in aviation the way that airlines form relationships and the economics of the market for oil and jet fuel among others The Patent-Competition Interface in Developing Countries Thomas K. Cheng, 2021-12-16 This book proposes an approach to the patent competition interface for developing countries It puts forward a theoretical framework after canvassing relevant policy considerations and examines the many reasons why patent protection is not essential for generating innovation incentives in developing countries These include the tendency of the patent system to overcompensate innovators the availability of other appropriation mechanisms for innovators to monetize their innovations and the lack of appropriate technological capacity in many developing countries to take advantage of the incentives generated by the patent system It also argues that developing countries with a small population need not pay heed to the impact of their patent system on the incentives of foreign innovators It then proposes a classification of developing countries into production countries technology adaptation countries and proto innovation countries and argues that dynamic efficiency considerations take on different meanings for developing countries depending on their technological capacities For the vast majority of developing countries bereft of meaningful innovation capacity foreign technology transfer is the main vehicle for technological progress The chief dynamic policy consideration for these countries is hence incentives for technology transfer instead of innovation incentives There are three main means of voluntary technology transfer importation of technological goods foreign direct investment and technology licensing

Competition law regulation of patent exploitation practices interacts with these three means of technology transfer in different ways and an appropriate approach to the patent competition interface for these countries needs to take these into account Distilling all these considerations the book proposes a development stage specific approach to the patent competition interface for developing countries The approach is then applied to a number of patent exploitation practices including unilateral refusal to deal patent tying excessive pricing for pharmaceuticals reverse payment settlements and restrictive licensing practices
