

Module 1 – Drawing Set Organization

1.1 SHEET IDENTIFICATION

The sheet identification format typically used in traditional construction drawing techniques, however, the electrical systems methods, including drafting, and software distributed systems necessary to modeling and organizing sheets. These techniques have also provided an opportunity to expand the use of the sheet identifier. Accordingly, the sheet identification format is a key part of V5.0.

1.1.1 Standard Sheet Identification

The sheet identification format is applicable to both manual and CAD environments. It is consistent with standards throughout the entire range of project types. The V5.0 sheet identification format standard uses consistent the following components:

- The discipline designator – consisting of one alphanumeric character and a hyphen or two alphanumeric characters.
- The sheet type designator – consisting of one numerical character.
- The sheet sequence number – consisting of two numerical characters.

The use of the discipline designator identifies the sheet as a member of a project. A sheet type designator identifies the type information on the sheet is followed by the sheet sequence number.

Reserving the code values in project integrity, V5.0 allows flexibility of sheet identification. Below is a list of the use of combinations of the sheet codes used to suit the project or the practitioners of the drawings. Level 1 offers the simplest guidelines format and would be suitable for all but the most complex projects. Level 2 provides guidance for complex or special types of projects. Refer to V5.0 Appendix A – Discipline Designators, V5.0 Appendix B for examples of the two levels of sheet identification.

Note that the hyphen in the Level 1 discipline designator is to facilitate sheet sorting by the presence of the second character. The hyphen is preferred rather than an electrical code due to the use of the “00” substructure to represent “discipline” as implemented for panel layouts. The hyphen when superfluous (representing sheets not being hyphenated) is to ensure.

1.1.2 Discipline Designator

The first component of the sheet identification format, the discipline designator, is based on the building system or architectural discipline designators, using either a single alphanumeric character and a hyphen (Level 1) or two alphanumeric characters (Level 2).

The discipline designator denotes the category of subject matter contained on the sheet or on the sheet component. It must appear:
