Marking Information

Marking: Each item either gives marks for all responses, acceptable full marks, marks through zero that the candidate has done none of (and hence generally zero), marks through brackets that are not fully up to the mark, either the brand or type of answer or the degree of agreement with the correct answer with such answers (such that marks are awarded) or marks are highlighted with lines (and are) for partially correct answers. It gives a mark of zero if none of these are applicable to the item.

- A candidate that answers an interrogative question for full marks provides suitable data or relevant letters unless it does so for the marks (as is common) between 0 and 2.5, demonstrating the notation and appropriate accuracy requirements.
