Download

Multiple Choice: For each question, choose the letter that best answers the question. Questions are marked with a checkmark to denote correct answers. The questions have choices: Always true, Sometimes true, Sometimes false, or Neither true nor false. All choices are equally weighted.

For this chapter 27 lab activity, retrograde motion of Mars happens at least looking from Earth because Mars is the innermost planet relative to Earth's orbit. It has a shorter orbital period than Earth. This is why you witness retrograde motion relative to the other planets from Earth.

Which is true?

- 1. Retrograde motion is constant. True or false?
- 2. It is observed as being forward or not that (retrograde only)
- 3. I cannot see anything at all. None of the answers.
