

Checklist for Entrepreneurs: What You Need to Start a Business

10 minute read

Starting a business is exciting—putting your product or service into the world, finally getting to be your own boss, and calling all the shots!

That being said, launching your own business is a big undertaking and one that can feel overwhelming. Knowing where to start and what your entrepreneurial journey will look like can take some of the guesswork out of the process.

A great way to get a head start on this planning is to draw up a simple checklist of what you'll need to start your business. It doesn't need to be a super-detailed business plan—that's just one part of your list. Your checklist should cover everything you'll need right up until the day you introduce your business to the world, from market research to required licenses and permits.
