

Chapter 15: Immigrants and Urbanization

Section 1: The New Immigrants

Through the "Golden Door"

- Between 1870 and 1920 approximately 20 million Europeans arrived from the US.
- Why? The promise of a better life - to escape difficult conditions such as famines and land shortages, or to escape religious or political persecution.
- Others known as "birds of passage" came to the US to earn money and then return home.
- Chinese immigrants came to the West Coast and similar numbers. Many came to seek their fortunes after the discovery of gold and 1848.
- However, Chinese immigration was sharply limited by a congressional act in 1882.

Life in the New Land

A Difficult Journey

- A trip across the Atlantic from Europe to the United States took approximately 1 week, while the Pacific crossing from Asia to nearly 3 weeks.
- Once on land the immigrants faced the anxiety of not knowing whether they would be admitted into the United States.
- *Ellis Island- was a US immigration and inspection station in the New York Harbor.
- 17 million immigrants passed through its doors.
- *Angel Island- located in the San Francisco Bay; this is where Asians, primarily Chinese arriving on the West Coast gained admission.
- Processing at Angel Island was much harsher than on Ellis Island.
- Once admitted into the country, immigrants faced the challenges of finding a place to live, getting a job, and getting along in daily life while trying to understand an unfamiliar language and culture.

Immigration Restrictions

- *Nativism- the overt favoritism towards native-born Americans.
- People often disliked the immigrants' unfamiliar customs and languages and view them as a threat to the American way of life.
- *Melting Pot- a mixture of people of different cultures and races to who blended together by abandoning their native languages and customs.

Anti-Asian Sentiment

- Native born workers feared that their jobs would go to Chinese immigrants who would accept lower wages.
- *Chinese Exclusion Act- passed in 1882 by Congress. It banned entry to all Chinese except students, teachers, merchants, tourists, and government officials.
- In 1892, it was extended for another 10 years.
- In 1902, Chinese immigration was restricted indefinitely; this law was not repealed until 1943.
- In 1906, the fears that had led to anti-Chinese aggression extended to Japanese and other Asian people.
- The local Board of Education in San Francisco segregated Japanese children by putting them in separate schools.
- *Gentleman's Agreement- (1907-1908) when Japan raised an angry protest at the treatment of its emigrants, President Theodore Roosevelt worked out a deal.
- Japan's government agreed to limit immigration of unskilled workers to the US in exchange for the repeal of the San Francisco segregation order.
