Village Phone Replication Manual David Keogh, Tim Wood, United Nations ICT Task Force, 2005 Why is it such a challenge to provide telecommunications to rural areas High initial infrastructure investment relative low call volumes high maintenance costs due to harsh environments cash box collection needs cash security costs for coin operated phones card availability for prepaid airtime systems technical illiteracy remote locations and high transportation costs are just some of the impediments to providing rural telecommunications access This manual is based on the experiences of the Village Phone Programmes in Bangladesh and Uganda In rural villages where no telecommunications services have previously existed the programme provides cellular phones via a sustainable financing mechanism to poor entrepreneurs who use the phone to operate a business Such has been the success that over 2 000 village phone businesses are now operating in remote villages of Uganda This manual is a guideline for replicating the programme in a new country It establishes a template for creating sustainable initiatives that bring telecommunications to the poor create viable new businesses for micro entrepreneurs and expand the customer base for telecommunications companies Integrity in Mobile Phone Financial Services Pierre-Laurent Chatain, World Bank, 2008 Governments are challenged to make an innovation friendly climate while simultaneously ensuring that business development remain sustainable Criminal use of the technology terrorist financing and money laundering challenges long run business viability via risk of massive investment flight and public distrust of new players entering the market Sustainable business models are those that base regulation on a careful risk based analysis This study identifies the perceived risks and compares them with the actual level of risk for each category of mobile phone financial services The comparison reveals that the perceptions do not weigh up to the reality Based on fieldwork in seven locations where the technology has taken off this paper finds that providers apply measures that are consistent with international standards to combat money laundering and terrorist financing It identifies the sometimes non traditional means the industry uses that both mitigate the risks and are in line with good business practices Acknowledging that mobile phone financial services are no riskier than other channels governments are called to treat them as an opportunity to expand access to finance
