organises their everyday experiences of intimate life It argues that the proliferation of self help media contributes to the psychologisation of intimate relationships and obscures the social dimensions of intimacy in terms of gender race ethnicity and other social structures and inequalities At the same time the book draws on anthropological arguments about the colonisation of consciousness in the Global South to interpret the insertion of transnationally mobile popular psychology into Trinidadian society An innovative contribution to scholarship on therapeutic cultures which explores the widely under researched dissemination of popular psychology in the Global South the book adds to a sociological understanding of the ways in which therapeutic narratives of self and intimate relationships come to be incorporated into everyday experience As such it will appeal to scholars of cultural studies anthropology and the sociology of gender sexuality families and personal life

Annual Review of the Sociology of Religion. Volume 8 (2017) Michael Wilkinson, Peter Althouse, 2017-05-01 The intersection of religion ritual emotion globalization migration sexuality gender race and class is especially insightful for researching Pentecostal notions of the body Pentecostalism is well known for overt bodily expressions that includes kinesthetic worship with emotive music and sustained acts of prayer Among Pentecostals there is considerable debate about bodies the role of the Holy Spirit possession of evil spirits deliverance exorcism revival and healing of bodies and emotions Pentecostalism is identified as a religion on the move and so bodies are transformed in the context of globalization Pentecostalism is also associated with notions of sexuality gender race and class where bodies are often liberated and limited This volume evaluates these themes associated with contemporary research on the body
