What are the differences between Clustered and Unclustered Lookup?

The differences are explained in the below table:

Clustered Lookup	Unclustered Lookup
Clustered lookup performs an iterative scan across the entire table to find the position.	Unclustered lookup performs a single scan from the start to the end of the partition to find the position.
Clustered lookup can use more resources than unclustered lookup.	Unclustered lookup needs smaller resources.
Clustered lookup can return more than one row per key (e.g. range scan).	Unclustered lookup can return only one row per key (e.g. point query).
Clustered lookup handles all range queries.	Unclustered lookup handles only the range queries that are in the index structure and the query.
Supports non-difficult range queries (e.g. range for values when index conditions are not specified).	Does not support non-difficult range queries.

What is meant by active and passive transformation?

Active transformation is the one that writes the output of the transformation.

1. Change the content of table between transformation input and output. Examples: Join transformation.
2. Change the structure of table by adding, deleting or renaming columns. Examples: Projection transformation.
3. Change the data type. Examples: Update columns to string because it fits the new data model. Example: Update of type.
