

BASIC GASKET APPLICATION GUIDE & MATERIAL SELECTION

Application / Function

Pressure gaskets are generally used to seal liquid or gas, to the contrary, the utilization of these seals is a failure to allow compressed. These concepts show 2 gaskets under different seal types in a pressure vessel application as all these are made manufacturers used to increase the quality. A gasket is used to maintain the pressure in a system and to prevent leakage throughout the life cycle application. The gasket compresses to form a seal between the mating surfaces of the vessel. This is done by creating a uniform force on compression the gasket material over the application between the mating surfaces. If the gasket material is not ready for pressure and compressed through the life of the application then would be a failure for a gasket.

In order to determine the application requirements will require the gasket designer to determine the gasket to select a correct seal. Every gasket application or design has many requirements therefore that must be addressed by specifying the performance of what the gasket is required to do against the application.
