The Ethics of Rapid Tissue Donation (RTD) Chiara Mannelli, 2021-02-11 This book offers a reflection on the central role that the ethics of informed consent plays in Rapid Tissue Donation RTD RTD is an advanced oncology procedure that involves the procurement for research purposes of fresh tissues within two to six hours of a cancer patient s death Since RTD involves the retrieval of tissues after death and since the collected tissues are of great importance for medical research the need for any form of informed consent to regulate this procedure has been questioned This book argues for the necessity of informed consent to govern RTD and it provides the reader with a bespoke informed consent process applicable to cancer patients The analysis unfolds at the intersection between applied ethics public health ethics and clinical ethics and it is informed by philosophical theories of informed consent and by the social implications of individual choices By viewing medical issues relating to informed consent in oncology from an ethical perspective the book combines philosophical analysis with discussion of concrete cancer related issues As a result the book is suitable for readers interested in ethical reasoning as well as for those with a medical background It contributes to contemporary research by offering an original analysis that relies on a rigorous philosophical approach to address innovative issues at the cutting edge of medical research and policy making

Respect Richard Dean, Oliver Sensen, 2021 Our ideas about morality are often framed in terms of demands for respect or complaints about being disrespected yet basic questions about the nature and role of respect are frequently overlooked Leading philosophers present fresh perspectives on respect and its implications for social justice disability environmental ethics and more
