

Planets Beyond Our Solar System

In our Solar System, planets orbit the Sun, but many planets orbit other stars in the universe. These other planets are known as exoplanets or more simply planets. If each star in our galaxy is orbited by just one planet, that's already billions of exoplanets!

Discovery

Looking back, there was possible evidence of exoplanets from 1917. However, the first were only officially detected in the 1990s. New techniques and technology, like space telescopes, have helped us learn about an incredible variety of planets.

Types

When it comes to planets, there is no such thing as normal! Exoplanets can:

- orbit two stars,
- have the shape of a rugby ball,
- be made of rock, metal and/or gas,
- be hot enough to melt metal,
- rain metal or maybe even diamonds!

Examples

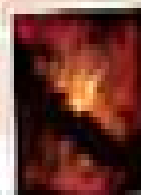

Kepler-90 is so hot it turns molecules apart.

55 Cancri e is totally covered in lava and has sparkling skies.

Gliese 581c glows a cherry colour as it's still hot from being formed.

Trappist-1 is the hottest planet ever discovered. It reflects less light than coal.

HD 10180 is a smoking blue with lethal weather. It rains glass... sideways!

Fascinating Fact!

Exoplanet names usually begin with the telescope that discovered them. Numbers relate to the star that the planet orbits. Lower case letters stand for the order in which the planet was found. The first planet found is always named b, that's c, d, and so on.

Most of the exoplanets that have been found are hundreds or even thousands of light years away. One light year is about 9 trillion kilometres (6 trillion miles).

The 20th Century . . . the Real Truth
Robert Hubschman,2017-08-22 Just imagine being a sixteen year old child in 1900 compared to a sixteen year old child in 2000 and the advancements that resulted in changes not only in the United States but the entire world Most history books are slanted depending not only on what country you are from but also on the geographic location in some countries especially in the United States One cannot help but admire all the advancements in such a short time span in the twentieth century in comparison to the rest of the advancements that took place throughout human historythe span of time that took us from the horse to the horseless carriage and beyond What must have seemed to be science fiction in 1900 is our reality today The one lost concept seems to revolve around God and religion There are extremists in both the right and the left with the minority either killing in his name or trying to take him out of our culture completely No matter who we refer to him as he cannot be happy with the mess we made of this world and his many gifts What about our future
