

AP Biology - Chapter 5 Cellular Respiration Assignment

- What is the relationship between anaerobic and aerobic biology?
 Anaerobic means "without oxygen" and aerobic means "with oxygen". Aerobic respiration uses oxygen to produce energy, while anaerobic respiration does not. Anaerobic respiration is used by organisms in environments where oxygen is not available.
- What does an electron transport chain and what is its difference between a lowering and maximum electron potential?
 The electron transport chain is a series of protein complexes in the mitochondrial membrane that transfer electrons from one molecule to another, creating a proton gradient. The difference between a lowering and maximum electron potential is the energy difference between the two states of the electron.
- Describe the process and purpose of cell respiration.
 Cell respiration is the process by which cells convert glucose and oxygen into energy (ATP) and carbon dioxide. The purpose of cell respiration is to provide energy for the cell's metabolic processes.
- Explain prokaryotic cell division - binary fission and budding.

- What is surface area to volume ratio and importance of it as it applies to the biological world?
 Surface area to volume ratio is the ratio of the surface area of an object to its volume. It is important because it affects the rate at which substances can enter and leave the cell. A high surface area to volume ratio allows for a faster exchange of materials.
