A University for the 21st Century 20 Years Later James J. Duderstadt, 2017 University presidents are expected to draw upon their experiences to draft a book suggesting possible futures for higher education Since my term of office ended in 1996 as the new century approached it was natural to label this assignment as A University for the 21st Century a book that was awarded the Alice Beeman Award of CASE the Council on Advancement and Support of Education in 2001 Although this effort was heavily influenced by my experience in serving the University of Michigan as dean provost and president during the 1980s and 1990s I attempted to paint a broader picture of American higher education writ large Of course universities have a remarkable constancy in roles such as teaching and scholarship in organizations such as schools colleges and departments and in cultures such as academic freedom and tenure Indeed as Clark Kerr has noted in his famous quote

National Strategies for E-learning in Post-secondary Education and Training Jaap Scheerens, Steven J. Hite, Tony Bates, 2000 U.S. News & World Report, 2007 National Strategies for E-learning in Post-secondary Education and Training Tony Bates, International Institute for Educational Planning, 2001. This book argues that e-learning technologies such as internet are bringing about an important shift within the education sector and are changing the very nature of learning. However, e-learning is not a cheap alternative to face-to-face teaching and its financing raises many questions for policy makers. Using examples drawn from countries that have invested most heavily in e-learning, the study considers the different policy options available and concludes that in today's globalised economy, although e-learning may not be the answer to some of the most pressing problems in developing countries, governments cannot afford to avoid the issue of e-learning altogether.

It also aims to provide material for classroom use and to address issues relating to the economics profession.
