Developing of Cultural Identity and Perception of Foreign Cultures Martin Strang, 2005-01-20 Essay from the year 2004 in the subject Communications Intercultural Communication grade High Distinction Macquarie University Centre for International Communication course Cross Cultural Communication language English abstract In this critical analysis the question of how people develop their cultural identity and perceive foreign cultures will be answered This is done through an analysis of the following points First different definitions or attempted definitions of culture are critically regarded Then the role of identity in cross cultural communication is examined with focus on the creation of cultural identities just as different communication styles related to specific identities In the third part of this paper the roles of stereotypes in cross cultural communications are discussed with reference to their functions in society Finally the topic of nonverbal communication especially attempts to describe nonverbal communication of a specific culture is examined In the conclusion the results of this paper are discussed and summarised The essay refers to the movie The Quiet American in footnotes to illustrate theoretical aspects with appropriate examples Culture is a complex and constantly changing phenomenon so definitions of culture are quite numerous and differing Brislin 2000 p 23 refers to the definition of Triandis Kurowski Tecktiel they are shared by people who communicate in the same language and live in the same time place Even though this definition is obviously general it cannot be seen as one accepted by all researchers in cross cultural communication Brislin 2000 p 30 tries to define culture by constructing a checklist consisting of twelve points in order to prove if a specific behaviour or ideal is part of one's culture or not This checklist can be seen as a practical tool for people dealing with cross cultural settings but it is hardly a theoretical definition Raymond Williams 1962 cited in Lull 1995 p 130 defines culture as a particular way of life which is shared by a community The definition of Williams emphasises the dynamic character of culture which changes when we as members of our own culture change the way we talk dress or work At the same time Williams definition makes no distinction between superior or inferior cultures furthermore everybody has their specific way of life

The Global Intercultural Communication Reader Molefi Kete Asante, Yoshitaka Miike, Jing Yin, 2013-06-26 The Global Intercultural Communication Reader is the first anthology to take a distinctly non Eurocentric approach to the study of culture and communication In this expanded second edition editors Molefi Kete Asante Yoshitaka Miike and Jing Yin bring together thirty two essential readings for students of cross cultural intercultural and international communication This stand out collection aims to broaden and deepen the scope of the field by placing an emphasis on diversity including work from authors across the globe examining the processes and politics of intercultural communication from critical historical and indigenous perspectives The collection covers a wide range of topics the emergence and evolution of the field issues and challenges in cross cultural and intercultural inquiry cultural wisdom and communication practices in context identity and intercultural competence in a multicultural society the effects of globalization and ethical considerations Many readings first appeared outside the mainstream Western academy and offer diverse theoretical lenses on culture and communication practices in the world community Organized into five themed sections for easy classroom use The Global Intercultural Communication Reader includes a detailed bibliography that will be a crucial resource for today's students of intercultural communication

The Negotiation of Cultural Identity Ronald L. Jackson, 1999-06-30 This text offers a conceptual communication approach to defining the cultural self It focuses upon the concept of whiteness and its equation with being American and enlarges this to encompass how European Americans and African Americans can be racially marginalized

Identity and Status in the Translational Professions Rakefet Sela-Sheffy, Miriam Shlesinger, 2011 This volume contributes to the emerging research on the social formation of translators and interpreters as specific occupational groups Despite the rising academic interest in sociological perspectives in Translation Studies relatively little research has so far been devoted to translators social background status struggles and sense of self The articles assembled here zoom in on the groups of individuals who perform the complex translating and or interpreting tasks thereby creating their own space of cultural production Cutting across varied translatorial and geographical arenas they reflect a view of the interrelatedness between the macro level question of professional status and micro level aspects of practitioners identity Addressing central theoretical issues relating to translators habitus and role perception as well as methodological challenges of using qualitative and quantitative measures this endeavor also contributes to the critical discourse on translators agency and ethics and to questions of reformulating their social role The contributions to this volume were originally published in Translation and
