Eighteenth-Century British Literature and Postcolonial Studies Suvir Kaul,2009-02-25 This book convincingly challenges both the extremely short historical memory of most postcolonial work and the all too insularly English world still conjured by period specialists Hogarthian whores and Grub Street hacks coffee houses and fashionable pastimes and the burgeoning of print culture all stand revealed as intimately bound to portents of plantation insurgency agitation for abolition and the vast fortunes produced by the labouring bodies of the poor the colonized and the enslaved Eighteenth century studies has never appeared in a more engaged and fascinating light Professor Donna Landry University of Kent In this volume Suvir Kaul addresses the relations between literary culture English commercial and colonial expansion and the making of Great Britain in the late seventeenth and eighteenth centuries He argues that literary writing played a crucial role in generating the vocabulary of British nationalism both in inter national terms and in attempts to realign political and cultural relations between England Scotland and Ireland The formal innovations and practices characteristic of eighteenth century English literature were often responses to the worlds brought into view by travel writers merchants and colonists Writers even those suspicious of mercantile and colonial expansion worked with a growing sense of a national literature whose achievements would provide the cultural capital adequate to global imperial power and would distinguish Great Britain for its twin success in arms and arts The book ranges from Davenant s theatre to Smollet s Roderick Random to Phillis Wheatley s poetry to trace the impact of empire on literary creativity Key Features An introduction to the impact of mercantilism and empire on the crafting of eighteenth century British literature Encourages students to examine the key formal innovations that define eighteenth century British literary history as they were produced by writers who redefined Beyond Post-colonialism. The construction of Identities Through Muting and Absenting of the Other. Ahmed Musa,2021-07-19 Essay from the year 2021 in the subject Cultural Studies Middle Eastern Studies grade 95 language English abstract This paper is an attempt to trace the absence of the West in the cultural creative modes of knowledge productions that emerged post the Arab social movements in Tunisia and Egypt Whenever we discuss or approach the subject of the construction of identities in post colonial studies the West who I represent here as the other is largely but not entirely perceived as consolidating against or formulating the identities of the East or the identities of the Rest This is evident in not only the revered works of prominent theorists like Edward Said Homi Bhabha and Gayatri Spivak but also in the works of other post colonial theorists and writers that emerged afterward However during the Arab Spring one of the most solidaristic and transcultural Arab movements that searched for more stable governing models at crossroads of global regional and national challenges creative new forms of formulating identities beyond post colonial theory emerged such as the Arab Spring poetic slogans as creative modes of knowledge production which moved away from the previous discourse of the post colonial Arab intellectuals built on a bifurcated identity and also in tandem revolting the internal regimes of knowledge production The new forms of cultural productions not only represented moments of self emergency social solidarity and construction of the self during traumatic moments but also in tandem absented and muted the West and East binaries and antithesis of representation comparative perspective combined with an interdisciplinary approach to offer a diversity of views and illuminate the cultural impact of globalization on different societies around the world Africa Asia Europe and the Americas These societies face complex questions regarding people s histories identities and cultures that embody the ambivalence contradictions and anxieties generated by the process of globalization The contributors provide a compelling conclusion for a rethinking and reconfiguration of cultures and intercultural relations in today s global world in which dichotomized representations coexist with a discourse of globalization

Kwasi Wiredu and Beyond Sanya Osha,2005 Kwasi Wiredu is one of Africa s foremost philosophers whose thinking on conceptual decolonization in contemporary African systems of thought is well known Wiredu advocates a re examination of current African epistemic formations in order to subvert unsavoury aspects of tribal cultures embedded in modern African thought as well as deconstruct the unnecessary Western epistemologies to be found in African philosophical practices In this book Sanya Osha argues that Wiredu s apparent schematism falls short as a viable project and suggests that because of the very hybridity of postcoloniality projects seeking to retrieve the precolonial heritage are bound to be marred at several levels Language itself presents a major problems which Wiredu s thesis does not fully address
