

DESIGNING FOR ALL AGES & ABILITIES

Every design must meet the needs of a diverse range of potential bike riders. Across North America, however, many existing bike facility design practices are limited to only the oldest people being and exclude many who might otherwise use them.

IN AN AGE OF GROWING POPULATION that has become increasingly diverse and aging, it's essential to design bike facilities that are accessible to all. This means considering the needs of people of all ages and abilities, including children, young adults, older adults, and people with disabilities. It also means considering the needs of people who are not traditionally thought of as "cyclists," such as parents with strollers, people with shopping bags, and people who are carrying heavy loads.

Urban Bikeway Design Guide

National Association of City Transportation Officials

Third Edition

The third edition of the Urban Bikeway Design Guide provides updated guidance on how to design bike facilities that are safe, usable, and accessible to all. It includes a new chapter on "Designing for All Ages & Abilities" and updates to the "Bike Lane" and "Bike Path" chapters.
