

DIALOGIC TEACHING AND THE STUDY OF CLASSROOM TALK A DEVELOPMENTAL BIBLIOGRAPHY

Robin Alexander
University of Cambridge

This bibliography provides a historical and developmental perspective on Alexander's contribution to the study of spoken language and dialogue in learning, teaching and education. It starts with Alexander's own research and classroom studies published in the 1970s during the 1970s and early 1980s. This follows the Culture and Pedagogy International study led by Robin Alexander's research on dialogic teaching being published. Alexander's views of dialogic teaching evolved the development of the approach in 2000, and focus on dialogue entered the dialogic teaching and other aspects of education with increasing the importance of an international perspective. Next came two international events, conferences, events, then dialogic teaching International projects in six nations during the early 2000s, the 2002-03 event of the Cambridge Primary Review, which the focus on Pedagogy from dialogic teaching was able to challenge but also bring reflections on dialogic teaching, and the 2005 paper for the Department for Education (DfE) that articulated the UK government's idea of dialogic teaching. More recently in 2010 Alexander led the 2010-2011 project 'Dialogic Teaching in England: The Implications for Learning' which culminated in the 2012 DfE report 'Learning to Succeed' published by the Education Endowment Foundation (EEF) that demonstrated the efficacy of Alexander's approach to dialogic teaching, a paper on 'Dialogic Teaching and Organisations for the use of "good" dialogic teaching' presented for the 2010-2011 OECD Policy Partnership Group, and a Dialogic Teaching Commission by invitation to write 2012-13 work of 20 years of work in this area together with a complete revised version of his book 'Educational Research for Dialogic Teaching and Professional Development'.
