Dialogue and Deliberation Josina M. Makau,Debian L. Marty,2013-03-19 Across our differences people everywhere wish to be heard to be known and to be understood When these needs are met individuals have the potential to flourish and communities can work together in common cause Yet in the current argument culture the power of communication to meet these needs remains largely untapped and the ability to resolve shared problems is compromised This book explores the roots of this communication crisis and offers a realistic means to reconnect to build community and to make just and wise decisions together Dialogue and Deliberation Processes , Creating Space for Democracy Timothy J.

(Hennie) Lötter,2021-11-01 This book presents a theory of justice whereby people living in radically unjust societies may transform such societies in the direction of justice The identification of injustice is addressed since a radically unjust society may well conceal its injustice from its victims The book considers a range of moral and pragmatic requirements of political action in the transformation of society A special feature of this work of theory is that it is illustrated by troubling examples drawn from the history of South Africa The case made here is that justice is not just for just societies It is for all of us everywhere

Wisoff, 2012 Relevance in Argumentation Douglas Walton, 2003-10-17 In Relevance in Argumentation author Douglas

Walton presents a new method for critically evaluating arguments for relevance. This method enables a critic to judge whether a move can be said to be relevant or irrelevant and is based on case studies of argumentation in which an argument or part of an argument has been criticized as irrelevant. Walton's method is based on a new theory of relevance that incorporates techniques of argumentation theory, logic, and artificial intelligence. The work uses a case study approach with numerous examples of controversial arguments, strategies of attack in argumentation, and fallacies. Walton reviews ordinary cases of irrelevance in argumentation and uses them as a basis to advance and develop his new theory of irrelevance and relevance. The volume also presents a clear account of the technical problems in the previous attempts to define relevance, including an analysis of formal systems of relevance logic and an explanation of the Grecian notion of conversational relevance. This volume is intended for graduate and advanced undergraduate courses in those fields using argumentation theory, especially philosophy, linguistics, cognitive science, and communication studies, in addition to argumentation. The work also has practical use as it applies theory directly to familiar examples of argumentation in daily and professional life. With a clear and comprehensive method for determining relevance and irrelevance, it can be convincingly applied to highly significant practical problems about relevance, including those in legal and political argumentation.

Gatewatching Axel Bruns, 2005. Gatewatching. Collaborative Online News Production is the first comprehensive study of the latest wave of online news publications. The book investigates the collaborative publishing models of key news Websites ranging from the worldwide Indymedia network to the massively successful technology news site Slashdot and further to the multitude of Weblogs that have emerged in recent years. Introduction to the Philosophies of Research and Criticism in Education and the Social Sciences James L. Paul, 2005. This rigorous volume focuses on the underlying perspectives justifying the major approaches currently being used in educational research. Introductory chapters lay the foundation for exploring varying research perspectives. Nine specific perspectives on research: post-positivism, pragmatism, constructivism, ethics, and deliberate democracy, criticism, interpretivism, race, ethnicity, gender, arts-based research, and post-structuralism are examined through discussions written by senior scholars known for their expertise in the perspective. And a guided tour of criticism is given in which these same scholars demonstrate the use of the critical method by critiquing six studies selected as exemplars of different research approaches. For education students who aspire to become researchers and for those who simply need to read and understand research literature.

Problems Roger A. Lohmann, Jon Van Til, 2011-10-18 Public deliberation and group discussion can strengthen the foundations of civil society even when the groups engaged in debate share a history of animosity. Scholars have begun to study the dialogue sustaining these conversations especially its power to unite and divide groups and individuals. The twenty-four essays in this collection analyze public exchanges and the nature of sustained dialogue within the context of race relations, social justice, ethnic conflicts, public safety issues, public management, community design, and family therapy. They particularly focus on college campuses and the networks of organizations and actors that have found success there. Open discussion may seem like an idealistic if not foolhardy gesture in such milieus yet in fact the practice proves crucial to establishing and reinforcing civic harmony.

Working Through Environmental Conflict Steven E. Daniels, Gregg B. Walker, 2001-04-30 Environmental and natural resource policy decision making is changing. Increasingly citizens and management agency personnel are seeking ways to do things differently to participate meaningfully in the decision making process as parties work through policy conflicts. Doing things differently has come to mean doing things collaboratively. Daniels and Walker examine collaboration in environmental and natural resource policy decision making and conflict management. They address collaboration by featuring a method collaborative learning that has been designed to address decision making and conflict management needs in complex and controversial policy settings. As they illustrate collaborative learning differs in some significant ways from existing approaches for dealing with policy decision making, public participation, and conflict management. First it is a hybrid of systems thinking and alternative dispute resolution concepts. Second it is grounded explicitly in experiential, team, or organizational and adult learning theories. It is a theory-based framework through which parties can make progress in the management of controversial environmental policy situations. They discuss both the theory and technique of collaborative learning and present cases where it has been applied. This is a professional and teaching tool for scholars, students, and researchers involved with environmental issues as well as dispute resolution.
