EBOOK: Management Control Systems, 2e Frank Hartmann, Kalle Kraus, Göran Nilsson, Robert Anthony, Vijay Govindarajan, 2020-11-05 EBOOK Management Control Systems 2e Financial Accounting and Management Control Fredrik Nilsson, Anna-Karin Stockenström, 2015-02-20 This book is about financial accounting and management control and how these two information systems are related as well as how their objectives conflict. At the most fundamental level the objective of financial accounting is to provide owners and funders with comparable information on a company's value creation. The aim of management control on the other hand is to give the board, senior executives and employees unique information for strategy formulation and implementation. One often mentioned negative effect is the risk of financial accounting affecting management control design and use, making it less relevant for decision making at the company level. The book provides an analysis of the complex relationship between financial accounting and management control. The analysis is based on theoretical reasoning as well as several examples of how financial accounting standards affect not only the annual report but also the control system. An interesting and perhaps unexpected conclusion is that management control seems to affect financial accounting almost as much as financial accounting affects management control. These complex relationships which can influence the design and use of both financial accounting and management control are discussed in detail in this book. Management Control Systems and Cross-Cultural Research Michael Hanzlick, 2015-01-31 A fundamental challenge that management faces in the twenty first century is how to exercise adequate control, i.e. how to guide and direct the behaviour of their subordinates. With increasing globalisation firms witness a cross cultural impact too. Of particular interest is the question of whether to use the standardized form of control similar to the home base of firms or whether to adapt their control practices to the local specificities. Given the meagre state of the literature in management control with a cross cultural emphasis this study addresses a real world problem, namely the question whether management control practices are configured similarly or differently across cultures. Relying on a generalized industry sample across four countries: Belgium, Canada, Germany and Poland this study sought to shed light on one of the more intriguing questions: does culture matter for specific control areas, in particular for performance measurement, performance evaluation and reward systems. The theoretical foundations are grounded in the cultural framework of the GLOBE project, accompanied by thoughts of new institutionalism, stakeholder theory and contingency thoughts. Hypotheses are tested by mean comparisons, ANOVA, ANCOVA. The empirical findings highlight cultural differences for a broader set of control practices and deliver new insights into the intersection of culture and management control. This dissertation crafts a novel topic with high relevance for both researchers and practitioners. The study demonstrates areas for which management control practices should be adapted to the local needs and areas for which those practices could be harmonized in the whole company. This monograph stresses some areas in which future empirical cross cultural research can benefit and some areas where conceptual thoughts could be
