The future of the UK's strategic nuclear deterrent Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Defence Committee,2006-12-19 In its White Paper published in December 2006 as Cm 6994 ISBN 0101699425 on the future of the UK s nuclear deterrent the Government reaffirmed its commitment to maintain the submarine based Trident weapons system This will require the procurement of a new generation of nuclear powered Trident submarines to replace the current fleet of Vanguard class submarines Following on from the Committee s earlier report on the strategic context and timetable for decision making on the renewal of the UK s nuclear deterrent HCP 986 session 2005 06 ISBN 0215029445 this report focuses on issues related to the UK manufacturing and skills base These include the level of investment needed to sustain essential infrastructure and core skills in the UK submarine construction industry the potential consequences of a gap in the submarine building programme for the long term viability of the domestic manufacturing and skills base the implications of the rationalisation of the UK shipbuilding industry for the construction maintenance and affordability of a Vanguard class successor and the linkage between the Government s Defence Industrial Strategy and the decision on retention replacement or abolition of the UK s Trident system It also examines the Government s investment programme at the Atomic Weapons Establishment and the possible impact of a new civil nuclear build programme for the retention of nuclear skills and expertise in the military sector

Major Projects Report 2005 Great Britain: National Audit Office,2005-11-25 This is a companion volume to the main report HCP 595 I session 2005 06 ISBN 0102936250 and contains project summary sheets for the 30 projects covered

The United Kingdom's Future Nuclear Deterrent Capability Great Britain. National Audit Office,2008 The programme aims to maintain the UK s nuclear deterrent beyond the life of the current system with the introduction into service of the first of a new class of submarines in 2024 The timetable is challenging and the MoD needs to manage key risks if continuous nuclear deterrence is to be maintained The current two year initial concept phase for the new class of submarines requires a series of important and difficult decisions to be taken by September 2009 to keep the programme on track The MoD has appointed a Senior Responsible Owner to co ordinate these decisions The current predicted cost of procuring the new nuclear deterrent is between 15 billion and 20 billion 2006 7 prices as outlined in the 2006 White Paper The future of the UK s nuclear deterrent Cm 6994 ISBN 9780101699426 The estimated operating costs once the new class of submarines comes into operation are similar to those of the current deterrent and the MoD recognises the need by September 2009 to produce robust estimates of whole life costs There are major areas of uncertainty in the budget including the provision for contingency and VAT The submarine industry is a highly specialised industrial sector with a number of monopoly suppliers and there are real difficulties in providing the right incentives for these suppliers to deliver to time and budget The tight timetable set for ensuring the seamless transition from the present Vanguard class of submarines to the future class is challenging A further risk to the programme is a shortage of nuclear related skills in industry and within MoD potentially aggravated by competition from civil nuclear projects

Major projects report 2007 Great Britain: National Audit Office,2007-11-30 The Major Projects Report 2007 covers cost time and performance data for military equipment projects in the year ended 31 March 2007 20 of the largest projects are examined where the main investment decision has been taken by the Ministry of Defence the MoD along with ten projects still in the Assessment Phase Overall the MoD is in a similar position to 2006 for forecast cost and performance but there continue to be time delays The current total forecast cost for the 20 largest projects is 28 billion which is 2.5 billion over the most likely budget when the main investment decision was taken The MoD expects ten projects to deliver within their most likely budgeted cost Most of this cost growth occurred in earlier years but on two projects the Type 45 Destroyer 354 million and the Astute Class Submarine 142 million there has been significant cost growth in year The MoD has now agreed revised contracts on both of these projects to incentivise industry to reduce costs The MoD was again proactive in limiting potential in year cost increases on individual projects through reassessing requirements reducing quantities of equipments and re allocating expenditure to other projects or budget lines Five projects were delayed by a total of an extra 38 months this year Of these the most significant were the Type 45 Destroyer which has been delayed by a further 11 months and the Terrier and Next Generation Light Anti Armour Weapon projects have each been delayed by a further 12 months Detailed Summary Sheets for each of the 30 Projects are in Volume 2 HCP 98 II ISBN 9780102951493 There have been significant developments of interest on a project that appeared in the Major Projects Report until 2002 03 the Landing Ship Dock Auxiliary project and detailed findings are given in Volume 3 HCP 98 III ISBN 9780102951509

The United Kingdom and Nuclear Deterrence Jeremy Stocker,2013-05-13 In December 2003 the British government announced that within a few years it would need to take decisions about the future of Britain s strategic nuclear deterrent Exactly three years later its plans were revealed in a White Paper The existing Trident system is to be given a life extension which includes building new submarines to carry the missiles costing 15.20 billion Britain has a substantial nuclear legacy having owned nuclear weapons for over half a century The strategic context for the deterrent has changed completely with the end of the Cold War but nuclear weapons retain much of their salience This Adelphi Paper argues that it makes sense to remain a nuclear power in an uncertain and nuclear armed world Given that deterrence needs are now less acute but more complex than in the past the paper asserts that deterrence also needs to be aligned with non proliferation policies which seek to reduce the scale of threats that need to be deterred Somewhat overlooked in current policy are appropriate measures of defence which can raise the nuclear threshold and if required mitigate the effects of deterrence failure It concludes that the government's decisions about the future form of the deterrent are very sensible but cautions that they still need to be integrated into a broader policy that embraces diplomacy deterrence and defence to counter the risks posed by nuclear proliferation The Arms Trade, Security and Conflict Paul Levine, Ron Smith, 2003-05-15 An area of huge concern to many people around the world the economics of the Arms Industry are a vital strand that needs to be understood This volume brings together contributors from all over the globe and focuses on this important area Jane's Navy International, 2007 RUSI Defence Systems, 2006 Learning from Experience, 2011 Large complex submarine design and construction programs demand personnel with unique skills and capabilities supplemented with practical experiences in their areas of expertise Recognizing the importance of past experiences for successful program management the United Kingdom's Ministry of Defence MOD asked the RAND Corporation to develop a set of lessons learned from its Astute submarine program that could help inform future program managers RAND reviewed the history of UK nuclear submarines investigated how operational requirements were set for the Astute class explored the acquisition contracting design and build processes that the Astute program employed and assessed the plans and activities surrounding integrated logistics support for the Astute The impact of the substantial time gap between the design and build of the Astute and its predecessor nuclear submarines was greatly underestimated by the private sector and the MOD and both parties underestimated the impact of the MOD's decision to shift responsibilities to the private sector Designing and building a submarine requires careful management and oversight and a delegation of roles and responsibilities that recognizes which party the shipbuilder or the government is best positioned to manage risks P 4 of cover Strategic Digest, 2007 SP's Military Yearbook, 2004 The Royal Navy Submarine Service Antony Preston, 2001 In 1901 Holland One the Royal Navy's first submarine was launched This is a day by day account of the history and achievements of the Royal Navy's submarines throughout their first 100 years of service It chronologically analyzes separate classes of submarine Jane's Fighting Ships 2010-2011 Stephen Saunders, 2010-06-17 Jane's Fighting Ships is your essential reference to the world's navies Country by country you will find authoritative commentaries for each ship complete with comprehensive details of displacement and dimensions main machinery speed and range weapons systems construction and modernisation programmes latest operational status and strength of fleet including sales to other navies Marine Engineers Review, 2003 Parliamentary Debates (Hansard).
