Agbebaku,1996 African Politics Joellen Pretorius,2008 In 1991 Samuel Huntington published The Third Wave Democratisation in the Late Twentieth Century The book informed much of the scholarly work on democratisation in Africa Although comprehensive in classifying the causes and limitations of transitions to democracy The Third Wave was also limited in its definition of democracy and expectations of a new democracy This volume engages with the topics of democracy and democratisation in contemporary African politics at the local national and continental level It acknowledges a conceptual debt to Huntington when discussing elections party systems leadership and the development of continental norms of liberal democracy but also highlights new conversations eg about participatory spaces that go beyond the Third Wave African Politics J. Gus Liebenow,1986 A well balanced presentation especially notable for its succinct review of the factors currently controlling the South African political situation The Nation authoritative work Foreign Affairs broad enough in its reach to be useful to teaching in interdisciplinary African studies courses for undergraduates Perspective Gus Liebenow has produced a winner eminently suitable for classroom use with enough substance to be of interest to both teachers and students Africa Today A sympathetic but hardheaded analysis of the crisis issues common to the continent as a whole the struggle for national identity poverty the unresolved festering issue of white supremacy in Southern Africa the problem of political community in the African urban setting and the struggle for popular control over government Politics in Africa Nana Poku,Anna Mdee,2014-08-14 Democracy prosperity and self rule this was the vision of African independence Across the continent however the optimism that characterized the immediate post independence period has largely faded Meanwhile ordinary Africans lurch between undemocratic unaccountable and unresponsive governments and a decaying traditional African past How did things go so wrong Why has the continent lagged behind others in economic development despite its potential natural resources Why are so many African states prone to conflict And why has democracy been slow to take root in a majority of the countries Covering everything from African economies to the role of the state rural livelihoods to issues of gender Politics in Africa offers a fresh perspective in answering these questions making the continent s problems more understandable less wretched and even intensely hopeful Up to date concise and provocative this is indispensable reading for anyone interested in African politics
