

International Trade

Replace the underlined words and expressions in the text with the words and expressions in the box:

balance of payments	balance of trade	barter or counter-trade
climate	commodities	division of labour
economies of scale	factors of production	nations
protectionism	quotas	tariffs

(1) Countries import some goods and services from abroad, and export others to the rest of the world. Trade in (2) raw materials and goods is called visible trade in Britain and merchandise trade in the US. Services, such as banking, insurance, tourism, and technical expertise, are invisible imports and exports. A country can have a surplus or a deficit in its (3) difference between total earnings from visible exports and total expenditure on visible imports, and in its (4) difference between total earnings from all exports and total expenditure on all imports. Most countries have to pay their deficits with foreign currencies from their reserves, although of course the USA can usually pay in dollars, the unofficial world trading currency. Countries without currency reserves can attempt to do international trade by way of (5) direct exchanges of goods without the use of money. The (imaginary) situation in which a country is completely self-sufficient and has no foreign trade is called autarky.

The General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), concluded in 1994, aims to maximize international trade and to minimize (6) the favouring of domestic industries. GATT is based on the comparative cost principle, which is that all nations will raise their income if they specialize in producing the commodities in which they have the highest relative productivity. Countries may have an absolute or a comparative advantage in producing particular goods or services, because of (7) inputs (raw materials, cheap or skilled labour, capital, etc.), (8) weather conditions, (9) specialization of work into different jobs, (10) savings in unit costs arising from large-scale production, and so forth. Yet most governments still pursue protectionist policies, establishing trade barriers such as (11) taxes charged on imports, (12) restrictions on the quantity of imports, administrative difficulties, and so on.

- Does your country have a trade surplus or deficit?
- Does it have a balance of payments surplus or deficit?
- What are its chief exports?
- Which industries or sectors are protected?
- Which do you think should be protected?
