Multiple Perspectives in Linguistic Research on Baltic Languages Ineta Dabašinskienė, Nicole Nau, Aurelia Usoniene, 2012-01-17 The ten contributions to this volume present original research on grammar and discourse in modern Lithuanian and Latvian. They reflect the diversity of approaches in linguistic research on Baltic languages that has developed in recent years after a period where these languages were studied almost exclusively from the perspective of historical comparative linguistics. Current research perspectives include among others perspectives from discourse analysis, sociolinguistics, language acquisition research, corpus linguistics, contrastive studies and linguistic typology. The studies in this volume explore new ways of describing the system and use of Latvian or Lithuanian from a synchronic non-normative point of view. They focus on grammatical categories and constructions, modality, evidentiality, case, existential clauses, grammatical characteristics of lexical classes, reflexive verbs, numerals, the characteristics of certain forms of discourse, academic discourse, food discourse and the effects of an ideology of correct language on language users.

The author of this essay sums up some of the main ideas of Guy Cook, Geoffrey N. Leech, Greg Myers and Prof. Dr. Klaus Ostheeren. In order to look at an ad as a discourse type, it is necessary to look at Jacques Dubois and the Groupe who worked on the structure of language rhetorical operations, Isotopies and Metabolies. The latter can either evoke the pleasure of recognition or the pleasure of surprise. The AIDA-formula, the term register, the standard components of press advertisements etc. are also subject of this essay.
