MODULE- I – CHAPTER- 1: PRODUCTION PLANNING & CONTROL (PPC)

1. Definition & objective of PPC

Introduction:

Production is an organized activity of converting raw materials into useful products. But before starting the actual production process planning is done –

- To anticipate possible difficulties.
- To decide in advance – how the production processes be carried out in a best & economical way to satisfy customers.

However, only planning of production is not sufficient. Hence management must take all possible steps to see that plans chalked out by the planning department are properly adhered to and the standard sets are attained. In order to achieve it, control over production process is exercised.

Objective:

Therefore, the ultimate objective of production planning and control is to produce products of

- right quality
- in right quantity
- at right time

By using the best and least expensive methods/procedure.

Definition:

PPC may be defined as the direction and co-ordination of the firms materials and physical facilities towards the attainment of pre-specified production goals in the most efficient and economical way.
