MEMS Accelerometers: Testing and Practical Approach for Smart Sensing and Machinery Diagnostics

A. Albarbar and S.H. Teay

Abstract Micro-Electro Mechanical Systems (MEMS)-based sensing elements are gaining wider acceptance and adoption for static and dynamic (mobile) applications. Recent increase in demands for reliable wireless sensing nodes has necessitated seeking alternatives to expensive conventional accelerometers to perform multi-control and monitoring tasks. Owing to their size and cost, MEMS accelerometers is one of the alternative options.

This chapter provides insight into the fundamental design, working principles and practical guidance to MEMS accelerometers. Details of experimental set-ups, signal conditioning and data processing are also provided to construct integrated performance assessment system. Performance assessments are carried out using sinusoidal excitations, impulsive (hammer testing) and random excitations. Subsequently, calculations and comments on frequency response functions, signal-to-noise ratios and phase distortions are outlined. Finally, guidelines to practical adoption of MEMS accelerometers such as packaging, establishing smart vibration sensing nodes and extraction of condition-related information are given.

Keywords MEMS accelerometers design and testing • Performance assessment of MEMS accelerometers • Vibration measurement using MEMS sensors • Smart sensor design and implementation • Machinery-condition monitoring

1 Introduction

Vibration analysis is one of the most usable methods in machinery-condition monitoring. It plays a significant role in the dynamic qualification of newly designed structural components, prediction of faults and structural aging-related problems, and several other structural dynamics studies and diagnosis [1–3].
