Small Farmers for Global Food Security Thomas Reuter, Graeme MacRae, 2024-04-05 Food systems in Indonesia and worldwide have experienced major transformations in the wake of agricultural modernisation Once intact eco systems have declined dramatically along with human diets long term food security and social cohesion Using long term ethnographic research we documented this loss of traditional food systems in Java Bali East Timor and India but also a recent revival and reinvention of sustainable production methods and community based distribution systems A growing movement of small farmers now reject the dominant paradigm of aggressive capitalist development and are re creating food systems based on moral ecology a new concept we introduce to characterise food systems that regenerate the natural environment and serve the common good rather than maximise profit Small farmers like these already feed two thirds of humanity using only a third of agricultural land With proper support we argue they could feed the entire world using sustainable and socially responsible approaches to eradicate world hunger

Social Policies in Times of Austerity and Populism Natália Sátyro, 2024-07-12 Featuring the latest research by Brazilian based scholars previously inaccessible to an English speaking audience this book is a timely authoritative multidisciplinary overview of social policies in Brazil during the Temer austerity and the Bolsonaro populist presidencies The breadth of policies studied herein provides clues on the political agenda preferences and strategies during this tumultuous period in Brazil's history. Divided into four parts, Part I is a conceptualization that brings basic understanding of Brazilian social policies, explains the trajectory of the Brazilian political landscape including the growth of a populist right-wing movement, the economic crisis, and the increase in poverty and inequality in Brazil prior and the threat to democracy brought about by the disinformation ecosystem. Part II discusses social security, social assistance, conditional cash transfers, and healthcare. Part III analyzes the neoliberal strategies to social investment policies, specifically labor, family, and education. In Part IV, the authors turn their attention to non-conventional topics that are not typically included in research on welfare state retrenchment, including the environment and indigenous rights and police violence and gun control.

Social Policies in Times of Austerity and Populism is unhesitatingly recommended to all those who teach welfare state politics, comparative public policy, development studies, Brazilian politics, and right-wing politics.

Two additional sections examine the role of e-government in developing countries and smart cities.

Supporting Civics Education with Student Activism Pablo A. Muriel, Alan J. Singer, 2020-10-01. This book empowers teachers to support student activists. The authors examine arguments for promoting student activism, explore state and national curriculum standards, suggest activist projects, and report examples of student individual and group activism. By offering suggestions for engaging students as activists across the K-12 curriculum and by including the stories of student activists who became lifetime activists, the book demonstrates how activism can serve to bolster democracy and be a component of rich experiential learning. Including interviews with student and teacher activists, this volume highlights issues such as racial and immigrant justice, anti-gun violence, and climate change.
