created by the combination of the individual markets In the Andean Common Market the importance attached to the expectation of the gains from industrialization was expressed in the formulation of Sectorial Programs of Industrial Development Other integration schemes among less developed countries have not addressed the issue of import substituting industrialization in such detailed manner In the first section of this chapter the importance of the topic of allocating industries in integration schemes among less developed countries is discussed It is argued that the benefits to be derived from increased trade in the traditional products of the member countries are minimal Instead the member countries expect the benefits from economic integration schemes to be derived from the utilization of the opportunities for industrialization created by such schemes
