The History of Cartography, Volume 6 Mark Monmonier, 2015-05-18 For more than thirty years the History of Cartography Project has charted the course for scholarship on cartography bringing together research from a variety of disciplines on the creation dissemination and use of maps Volume 6 Cartography in the Twentieth Century continues this tradition with a groundbreaking survey of the century just ended and a new full color encyclopedic format The twentieth century is a pivotal period in map history The transition from paper to digital formats led to previously unimaginable dynamic and interactive maps Geographic information systems radically altered cartographic institutions and reduced the skill required to create maps Satellite positioning and mobile communications revolutionized wayfinding Mapping evolved as an important tool for coping with complexity organizing knowledge and influencing public opinion in all parts of the globe and at all levels of society Volume 6 covers these changes comprehensively while thoroughly demonstrating the far reaching effects of maps on science technology and society and vice versa The lavishly produced volume includes more than five hundred articles accompanied by more than a thousand images Hundreds of expert contributors provide both original research often based on their own participation in the developments they describe and interpretations of larger trends in cartography Designed for use by both scholars and the general public this definitive volume is a reference work of first resort for all who study and love maps

Basics of Geomatics Mario A. Gomasasca, 2009-09-18 Geomatics is a neologism the use of which is becoming increasingly widespread even if it is not still universally accepted It includes several disciplines and techniques for the study of the Earth's surface and its environments and computer science plays a decisive role A more meaningful and appropriate expression is Geospatial Information or GeoInformation Geospatial Information embeds topography in its more modern forms measurements with electronic instrumentation sophisticated techniques of data analysis and network compensation global satellite positioning techniques laser scanning etc analytical and digital photogrammetry satellite and airborne remote sensing numerical cartography geographical information systems decision support systems WebGIS etc These specialized fields are intimately interrelated in terms of both the basic science and the results pursued rigid separation does not allow us to discover several common aspects and the fundamental importance assumed in a search for solutions in the complex survey context The objective pursued by Mario A Gomasasca one that is only apparently modest is to publish an integrated text on the surveying theme containing simple and comprehensible concepts relevant to experts in Geospatial Information and or specifically in one of the disciplines that compose it At the same time the book is rigorous and synthetic describing with precision the main instruments and methods connected to the multiple techniques available today
