Could millions of jobs soon be eliminated by artificial intelligence and robots From driverless cars to digital assistants it seems the world of work is on the cusp of a technological revolution that is generating hopes and fears alike But are the robots really knocking at the door And what does all this mean for New Zealanders In this far sighted and lucid book Kinley Salmon explores the future of work in New Zealand He interrogates common predictions about a jobless future and explores what might happen to workers in New Zealand as automation becomes more widespread This book also asks big questions about the power we have to shape technological progress and to influence how robots and artificial intelligence are adopted It sketches out two bold alternative futures for New Zealand and suggests what it might take and what we might risk to pursue each of them It is time Salmon argues to start debating and choosing the future we want for New Zealand      National Bureau of Standards Monograph United States.
