

In a broad sense, accounting includes book-keeping also. But in practice, book-keeping and accounting differ in their scope and nature of their functions. In small businesses, both the functions may be performed by a single accountant. In bigger firms, the accounts department may be divided into book keeping and accounting sections.

Objectives of Accounting

Objectives of Accounting may differ from business to business depending upon their specific requirements. However, the following are the general objectives of accounting:

1. Maintenance of Accounting Records: Accounting records are the basis for the accounting work. The records have to be maintained systematically. While maintaining the accounting records, the generally accepted accounting conventions and concepts have to be followed.

In the recent years, maintenance of books and records is relegated to the lower level employees. Still, required guidance has to be provided to them as and when necessary.

2. Ascertainment of Profit or Loss: Accounting is expected to ascertain and reveal the net results of the operations of a business. Various interested parties like owners, management, investors and creditors should be supplied with the results of operations as per their specific requirements. While finalising the accounts, objective approach is essential, combined with consistency and conservatism.

3. Depiction of financial position: A true and fair view of the financial position should be presented. The properties and assets possessed by the business should be shown at appropriate values as per the prevailing practices. The stake of creditors and owners in the business should be clearly presented. All the material information must be clearly disclosed.

4. Providing Information: In the recent years, providing information has become the most important objective of accounting.

The American Accounting Association (AAA) has listed out the following purposes for which accounting should provide information.

- (a) Making decisions concerning the use of limited resources including identification of crucial decision areas and determination of objectives and goals.
- (b) Effectively directing the controlling of an organisation's human and material resources.
- (c) Maintaining and reporting on the custodianship of resources.
- (d) Facilitating social functions and control.
