Besides, backed by more than 500 worked examples developed within the context of various scenarios and spanning the full spectrum of real world challenges, it quickly instills in readers the professional acumen and practical skills they need to perform accurate radiation assessments in virtually any routine or emergency situation. The result is a valuable resource for upper level students and anyone preparing to take the American Board of Health Physics Comprehensive Examination, as well as for professionals seeking to expand their scope and sharpen their skills.

Modeling and Simulation of Aerospace Vehicle Dynamics Peter H. Zipfel, 2000 A textbook for an advanced undergraduate course in which Zipfel, aerospace engineering U of Florida, introduces the fundamentals of an approach to or step in design that has become a field in and of itself. The first part assumes an introductory course in dynamics and the second, some specialized knowledge in subsystem technologies. Practicing engineers in the aerospace industry, he suggests, should be able to cover the material without a tutor. Rather than include a disk, he has made supplementary material available on the Internet. Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc, Portland, OR
