Affect In Language Learning:

Affect in Language Learning Jane Arnold, 1999-01-14 This book examines the role of affect and cognition in language learning

AFFECT IN FOREIGN LANGUAGE AND SECOND LANGUAGE LEARNING Dolly J. Young, 1999 Affect in Foreign Language and Second Language Learning offers high school and college university second language teachers or teachers in training practical suggestions for creating activities that take into account learner anxieties frustrations or discomfort in the language learning process The objective of the book is to offer concrete instructional approaches for language learning that are rooted in second language acquisition research and at the same time that promote a low anxiety classroom environment The authors of each chapter are specialists in specific areas of language learning and their essays composed specifically for this volume lay the groundwork for continued research on affect in language learning This text is part of the McGraw Hill Second Language Professional Series edited by James F Lee and Bill VanPatten

Emotions and Affect in Language Learning Larisa Nikitina, 2025-04-17 This book explores emotions and affect in language learning during total lockdown during the early phase of the COVID 19 pandemic when all teaching and learning activities had to transition online Having classes online and learning in lockdown was an unknown disconcerting and emotionally saturated experience for both the teachers and their students majoring in foreign languages To explore this the author conducted a study at a Malaysian university using perezhivanie a concept introduced by Lev Vygotsky 1896 1934 as a theoretical foundation for pedagogically oriented research on affect and emotions It refers to an intense emotional lived through experience that often leads to a qualitative change within an individual To capture the students experiences of learning in total lockdown she also employs photovoice methodology as an analytical approach In her book Nikitina demonstrates using the photovoice method to capture the emotional ebbs and flows inherent in perezhivania The theoretical framework of perezhivanie and novel photovoice methodology adopted in this book can be employed in future explorations of emotional labours of students and their teachers in a wide range of educational settings This book s theoretical anchoring robust methodology and rigorous analysis of visual and linguistic data findings presented in this book will contribute to a better understanding of learning and teaching during challenging circumstances for students and academics of applied linguistics psychology of language learning or second language acquisition in Language Learning and Teaching Marion Williams, Sarah Mercer, 2016-06-28 This book explores key areas of educational and social psychology and considers their relevance to language learning and teaching using activities and questions for reflection. The topics discussed in the book include learners and teachers' beliefs about how a language should be learned and taught, learning and working in groups, relationships with others, the role of the self in teaching and learning, motivation to start and persist with tasks, the role of emotions in learning. The authors provide useful insights for the understanding of language learning and discuss the important implications for language teaching pedagogy. Extra resources are available on the website www.oup.com/elt/teacher/exploringpsychology. Marion Williams was formerly Reader in Applied Linguistics at the University of Exeter and is a past president of IATEFL. Sarah Mercer is Professor of Foreign Language Teaching at the University of Graz, Austria. Stephen Ryan is Professor in the School of Economics at Senshu University, Tokyo.

The Effect of Community Context on Intergenerational Spanish Maintenance and English Proficiency Among Latina and Latino Children Nancy Alison Garrett, 1997. In this dissertation, I investigate how community context affects Spanish language use and English proficiency among Latina and Latino children in the United States, focusing on the children of immigrants. I view children's language attributes through a sociological perspective that recognizes that children learn and use languages within specific social and cultural contexts and that these contexts have an important effect on language acquisition and use. This theoretical perspective leads to the hypothesis that children's language skills and language use will be affected by the communities they live in. I predict that living in a metropolitan area with a greater propinquity and availability of Spanish speakers will increase a child's likelihood of speaking Spanish because this will increase opportunities for using and hearing Spanish and promote Spanish within a larger United States context that often devalues languages other than English. At the same time, I hypothesize that community context will have little effect on children's English skills because of the ubiquitous presence of English in the daily life of any U.S. child. I test these hypotheses using a national sample of children who live in metropolitan areas drawn from the 1990 Census. I find that levels of Spanish maintenance are extremely high among children of Latino immigrants and that a large majority of children who are born in the U.S. speak English fluently. Multivariate analysis demonstrates that several dimensions of a metropolitan area's language context, in particular, the saturation and segregation of Spanish speakers, have a strong effect on second-generation children's likelihood of speaking Spanish that persists even after controlling for household and individual-level variables. Contrary to my original hypothesis, I also find that the language characteristics of the metropolitan area have a significant effect on children's English proficiency. This effect, however, is smaller than the effect of metropolitan context on Spanish use. This analysis produces a better understanding of the specific elements of household and community context that affect language use. The results imply that children of immigrants are following multiple paths to language adaptation and that metropolitan context is an important influence on this process of adaptation. Cognitive and Educational Psychology for TESOL Andrzej

Cirocki, Bimali Indrarathne, Sharon McCulloch, 2024-08-19 This volume has been written specifically with TESOL teacher educators practitioners and classrooms in mind It is divided into three sections cognitive aspects of language learning individual differences and language learning difficulties and challenging behaviours Structured in this way it enables TESOL teacher educators and practitioners to better understand how language learners process and retain new information improving their overall ability to learn and remember In addition to supporting TESOL teacher educators and practitioners in promoting effective language learning this volume explains individual differences among language learners and the importance of developing learners emotional social and behavioural skills while addressing learning difficulties disorders disabilities and challenging behaviours whenever required The individual chapters are written in an accessible style to enable readers to explore various psychological concepts in their pedagogical practice by engaging in reflective teaching through action research This volume is a vital resource for pre and in service language teachers and will encourage language teacher educators to reassess their existing practices Chapter 2 is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License via link springer.com

The Neurobiology of Affect in Language Learning John H. Schumann, 1999-06-18 This book presents a theory of how the psychology and neurobiology of stimulus appraisal influences the variability in second language acquisition It then extends the notion of affect developed for second language acquisition to primary language acquisition and to cognition in general Written by one of the leading scholars in the field this book is an important research tool for students and professors of language studies and linguistics
