Echoes of Africa's Past. Archaeological explorations in the Anthropocene Savino di Lernia, 2025-05-30 Marking the 70th anniversary of the Libyan Italian archaeological Mission in the Tadrart Acacus and Messak this volume offers a multidisciplinary reflection on Africa's deep past and its enduring legacies in the Anthropocene. By tracing the echoes of human environment interactions across time it highlights how archaeological research continues to reshape our understanding of adaptation, resilience, and transformation in African societies. Drawing on interdisciplinary approaches including palaeoecology, bioarchaeology, rock art analysis, the archaeology of food production, and their various connections and networks, this book challenges outdated Eurocentric narratives by foregrounding African agency and complexity. Key themes include, among others, the Holocene environmental changes that influenced settlement patterns, the significance of rock art in interpreting past belief systems, and the impact of colonial trade and imperial expansion on indigenous communities. Echoes of Africa's Past serves as a resource for archaeologists, historians, anthropologists, and heritage scholars, offering fresh perspectives on Africa's dynamic past and its relevance to debates on sustainability and cultural heritage in the Anthropocene. Archaeological knowledge is incremental and hard won. It is assembled through time-intensive study of fragmentary evidence, and its corpus represents intergenerational effort. Though sometimes based on the study of stones, our interpretations are not written in them. Our working hypotheses typically run ahead of the evidence needed to assess them. Expanded investigations, new methods, and changing premises compel revision and sometimes outright rejection of earlier ideas. Typological aids deemed useful by earlier generations may outlive their usefulness at the same time as the evidence they organize remains pertinent and available for rethinking. The cumulative character of archaeological knowledge enables scalar perspectives across space and through time, casting what we know of one location in relief through comparison to others. These revisions, rethinkings, and scalar reflections encourage us to appreciate the complexity and diversity of past contexts, as amply illustrated in contributions to this volume. In short, resuscitating echoes of Anthropocene Africa is painstaking work. In this way, and others, archaeology is and should be slow science. Ann B. Stahl, University of Victoria, BC, Canada. Capital Construction Prioritized Requests, 2011. Digital Twin Adoption and BIM-GIS Implementation Samad Sepasgozar, Sara Shirowzhan, 2024-08-09. The aim of this edited book volume is to present new concepts and applications of Digital Twin and relevant tools in the built environment context. The book identifies key organisational factors that influence the adoption of technology within the architectural service industry, setting the stage for a deeper understanding of the shift towards digital methodologies. The book introduces the Digital Twin Readiness Level framework, a modified metric system with ten levels of risk-based maturity, and an empirical development of a Digital Twin Adoption Model. Furthermore, the text ventures into immersive virtual environments and their applications, showcasing innovative practices that enhance learning and operational efficiency. Additionally, the book examines the integration of Building Information Modelling (BIM) and

Geographic Information Systems GIS revealing new workflows for creating 3D models of cities A focus on Australia s government funded infrastructure projects offers insights into the values and acceptance criteria for these technologies providing a comprehensive overview of their practical implications and future potential This book is essential reading for practitioners engineers and managers involved in any phase of the built environment from design to operation and other architectural engineering and construction AEC stakeholders who are a part of digital transformations as well as researchers educators and students interested in the field
