Making Sense of Cyber

Capabilities for Small States Francis C. Domingo, 2022-03-28 Domingo explores the potential of cyber capabilities for small states in the Asia Pacific the most active region for cyber conflict He develops a systematic explanation for why Brunei New Zealand and Singapore have developed or are developing cyber capabilities Studies on cyber conflict and strategy have substantially increased in the past decade but most have focused on the cyber operations of powerful states This book moves away from the prominence of powerful states and explores the potential of cyber capabilities for small states in the Asia Pacific the most active region for cyber conflict It develops a systematic explanation of why Brunei New Zealand and Singapore have developed or are developing cyber capabilities despite its obscure strategic value The book argues that the distribution of power in the region and a technology oriented strategic culture are two necessary conditions that influence the development of cyber capabilities in small states Following this argument the book draws on neoclassical realism as a theoretical framework to account for the interaction between these two conditions The book also pursues three secondary objectives First it aims to determine the constraints and incentives that affect the utilization of cyber capabilities as foreign policy instruments Second the book evaluates the functionality of these cyber capabilities for small states Lastly it assesses the implications of employing cyber capabilities as foreign policy tools of small states This book will be an invaluable resource for academics and security analysts working on cyber conflict military strategy small states and International Relations in general
