Communication in Interpersonal Relationships Donald P. Cushman, Dudley D.

Cahn, 1985-06-30 This book discusses communication principles processes and skills from four different perspectives by explaining four related propositions First human communication is guided by socially established rules the knowledge of which allows interacting persons to exert influence over the outcome of their interactions Second self concepts are formed and sustained in our interactions with others Third the formation of sustained interpersonal relations depends upon the attraction resulting from reciprocal self concept support And fourth organizations and the cultural system provide the parameters within which self concepts and interpersonal relations are formed The implications of these propositions are examined in chapters two through ten The authors develop their system in terms of results What patterns of communication what patterns of signal exchange increase the probability of the development of affective relationship What patterns erode interpersonal systems or prevent them from forming The book also examines patterns of communication within task oriented organizations and in situations involving cultural differences

Interpersonal Communication in Friend and Mate

Relationships Anne Maydan Nicotera, 1993-01-01 A concentration on communication processes is essential to sorting out fundamental problems in interpersonal relationships This book provides a general theory of the role of communication in interpersonal relationships that is grounded in the rules perspective and focuses on self concept and interaction as the generative mechanisms of relationship formation and growth The authors explore the kind of information that is exchanged in the process of initiating developing and maintaining friend and mate relationships Both types of relationships are explored in numerous cultural settings including America and American subcultures as well as Korea Nigeria Japan and China The inclusion of Nigerian culture is particularly significant because the research literature in interpersonal communication is lacking any information from the continent of Africa Implications are then considered for communication exchange across three categories of interpersonal communication culture conflict and quality
