Lives in Land - Mucking excavations Christopher Evans, Grahame Appleby, Sam Lucy, 2015-12-31 The excavations led by Margaret and Tom Jones on the Thames gravel terraces at Mucking Essex undertaken between 1965 and 1978 are legendary. The largest area excavation ever undertaken in the British Isles involving around 5000 participants recorded around 44 000 archaeological features dating from the Beaker to Anglo Saxon periods and recovered something in the region of 1.7 million finds of Mesolithic to post medieval date. While various publications have emerged over the intervening years the death of both directors, insufficient funding, many organizational complications and the sheer volume of material evidence have severely delayed full publication of this extraordinary palimpsest landscape. Lives in Land is the first of two major volumes which bring together all the evidence from Mucking, presenting both the detail of many important structures and assemblages and a comprehensive synthesis of landscape development through the ages, settlement histories, changing land use, death and burial, industry and craft activities. The long time gap since completion of the excavations has allowed the authors the unprecedented opportunity to stand back from the density of site data and place the vast sum of Mucking evidence in the wider context of the archaeology of southern England throughout the major periods of occupation and activity. Lives in Land begins with a thorough evaluation of the methods, philosophy and archival status of the Mucking project against the organizational and funding background of its time and discusses its fascinating and complex history through a period of fundamental change in archaeological practice, legislation, finance, research priorities and theoretical paradigms in British Archaeology. Subsequent chapters deal with the prehistoric landscape, each focusing on the major themes that emerge by major period from analysis and synthesis of the data. The authors draw on archival material including site notebooks and personal accounts from key participants to provide a detailed but lively account of this iconic landscape investigation.

Nixon, Geological Survey of Canada, 1992 The report and accompanying map describe and interpret the terrain conditions across 48 000 km² of the coast and hinterland of Hudson Bay. The surface mapping of materials was combined with a study of river exposures in order to reconstruct the preglacial and glacial evolution of the landscape and postglacial changes in permafrost, climate and sea level. The geological interpretation was used to locate anomalously high concentrations of minerals of economic value including gold and uranium, assess aggregate sources, identify areas of sensitive permafrost terrain and to predict future environmental change Plato's Theaetetus John M. Cooper,2015-05-22 Originally published in 1990 This book discusses in a philosophically responsible and illuminating way the progress of the dialogue and its separate sections to improve our understanding of Plato s work on Theaetetus An early coverage of this dialogue this investigation predated a surge in study of Plato s piece which examined Socratic and pre Socratic thought The author s argument is that the Theaetetus engages in re evaluation of earlier doctrines of middle period Platonism as well as reaffirming theories about knowledge An important work in Platonic studies and epistemology
