Demystifying Academic Writing in Higher Education: A Process View on Academic Textual Production Xinghua Liu, Rui Alexandre Alves, Angelique Aitken, Josef Schmied, 2025-10-30. Academic writing in this Research Topic refers to the type of writing demonstrating students' disciplinary knowledge of and proficiency in synthesizing, analyzing, and responding critically to new information. Hyland (2004), Swales (1990), which may include those genres like course essays, project reports, research proposals, lab notes, journal articles, conference papers, theses, and dissertations. As the current workplaces have become increasingly specialized, higher education worldwide has been increasingly charged with the task of developing students' academic writing, and correspondingly, on students' parts, learning through writing has been necessary for them to succeed in higher education. To prepare university students for writing challenges during the past decades, numerous studies have been devoted to the study of linguistic and rhetorical resources in students' academic writing under such umbrella terms like style, reader awareness, authorial voice, writers' identity, stance, evaluation, textual structures, steps, and moves. Charles Hunston Hinkel (2002). However, previous research on academic writing has been predominantly focused on the linguistic and rhetorical aspects, namely the final product of students' writing, while the nature and processes of composition, students' engagement, and individual differences, and the influence of contextual factors like emerging technology have been underexplored. Thus, the goal of this Research Topic is to bring a process-oriented and dynamic perspective to the study of textual production in academic contexts by both encouraging an expanded view of existing research paradigms and also welcoming novel approaches. Data can be collected by using corpus building, interviews, and questionnaires, but we would also welcome the use of experimental methods and a mixed-method approach for data collection. Meanwhile, previous research mainly studied university students who were learning English as a second or foreign language; hence, we also welcome research examining first language writers and students who are learning a second or foreign language other than English. We believe for the study of the complex phenomenon like academic writing, no single method or tool can suffice. Therefore, we strongly recommend a more creative perspective in data collection and analyzing and interpreting academic writing. Papers can present quantitative data analyses based on experimental design or qualitative data analyses stemmed from more ethnographic-oriented research. Systematic review studies are also welcome. We encourage contributions related but not restricted to the following topics:

- 1 Cognitive processes in academic texts: planning, composing, and revisions, and student writers individual differences 2 Metacognition and self regulation in academic texts planning composing and revisions and student writers individual differences 3 Motivation and self efficacy in academic texts planning composing and revisions and student writers individual differences 4 Linguistic and rhetorical choices identity construction and disciplinary knowledge construction 5 Student writers textual production peer feedback and interactions with discourse communities 6 Affordances and challenges of artificial intelligence AI in the process of academic textual production in higher education

Using Semi-structured Interviews in Small-scale Research Eric Drever, 1995 Interviewing is one of the most common methods used in small scale educational research This book is about semi structured interviews in which the interviewer sets up a general structure by deciding in advance the ground to be covered and the main questions to be asked The detailed structure is left to be worked out during the interview and the person being interviewed has a fair degree of freedom in what to talk about how much to say and how to express it Semi structured interviewing is a very flexible technique for small scale research It is not suitable for studies involving large numbers of people but is most helpful in mini studies and case studies Chapters address 1 the use of interviews 2 different kinds of interviews 3 the interview schedule 4 planning and preparation 5 doing the interview 6 analyzing the interview and 7 reporting and communication Contains one figure three references and five suggestions for further reading SLD Becoming a Teacher Forrest W.
