Light Planning in the Urban Context

Christa van Santen

Birkhäuser

An aerial night photograph of a city, likely Austin, Texas, showing a dense urban landscape with numerous lights. A prominent feature is a glowing, semi-transparent, light-colored zone that starts from the left side of the frame and extends diagonally across the city towards the center. This zone appears to be a digital overlay, possibly representing a light planning or zoning boundary. In the background, a large, illuminated domed building, the Texas State Capitol, is visible on the right side. The overall scene is a mix of natural city lights and a digital overlay.
