Abstract

The widespread computerization processes in manufacturing industry and governmental agencies also apply to administrative information systems. This study examines the challenges and benefits of ERP implementation in a large public corporation and its subsidiaries in the manufacturing industry. Drawing on both an exploratory and a confirmatory research design, we investigate the challenges and implementation process of ERP for various sites. Key findings and generalised lessons are presented. In view of global competition and ERP adoption, managers should pay attention to the need of corporate information and communication. The private ERP system also has some useful implications on public ERP system. Some strategies to solve problems related to human resources, knowledge transfer, and implementation, implementation and use are offered. Copyright © Implementation of enterprise ERP system can improve enterprise performance significantly. This study aims to help managers, particularly operations ERP users, by providing strategies and lessons for better ERP implementation in implementing ERP system.
