Mortimore outlines the unique literacy challenges posed by specific subject areas for those with weaker literacy skills and more importantly how these challenges can be addressed and overcome. A student's GCSE results are vital in giving them the choices they deserve in order to go on to the next stage of their academic careers. This book draws on the success stories of schools and subjects that have made significant improvements in the outcomes of the children they teach regardless of their starting points. From the inevitable success of Michaela Community school to the gains made by the English department at Torquay Academy and the rapid reading improvements at Henley Bank, this book draws on both whole school initiatives and subject specific strategies which have had proven success. This book places a wide and balanced knowledge rich curriculum at the centre of any school improvement strategy designed to improve literacy and illustrates the role that all subjects must combine to play in building the vital background knowledge and vocabulary that young people need in order to read independently. This curriculum must then be delivered using those teaching methods that have had the greatest impact on disadvantaged learners and this book sets out how the methodology of direct and explicit instruction can be adopted within each subject area. Alongside this is a useful summary of staff development and inset which offers practical ways in which teachers' adoption of these effective strategies can be facilitated. There are also useful sections on creating a whole school dictionary of essential vocabulary, creating a culture of reading and writing, and also those key literacy barriers experienced by those students with some of the most common special educational needs.

Teaching English as an Additional Language in Secondary Schools Seán Bracken, Catharine Driver, Karima Kadi-Hanifi, 2016-11-10. With increasing numbers of learners in secondary schools having English as an additional language, it is crucial for all teachers to understand the learning requirements of these students and plan distinctive teaching approaches to engage and support them. This book provides school leaders, trainee teachers, and qualified teachers with the skills and practical knowledge they need to strengthen the learning outcomes of students for whom English is an additional language. Teaching English as an Additional Language in Secondary Schools sets out realistic ways in which EAL learners can be engaged and stretched in their learning, building on their prior literacy, cultural experiences, and language learning. It clearly explains the theory and key research into how additional languages are acquired and offers practical classroom teaching and learning strategies to show teachers how they can help EAL learners to access the curriculum and reflect on their learning through assessments. Features include tasks to help put the ideas into practice, case studies illustrating the key challenges faced by EAL learners, summaries of key research findings, reflections to encourage deeper thinking. Drawing on the daily experiences of teachers and teaching assistants, this book will be essential reading for all trainee and practising teachers that want to ensure students with EAL fulfil their true learning potential.

When School Reform Goes Wrong Nel Noddings, 2007-08-27. In this much needed volume, Nel Noddings uses her extensive experience at every level of schooling to challenge the No Child Left Behind Act (NCLB). Noddings invites readers to think critically about the ideas underlying NCLB, the reform movement that shaped it, and the processes it has put into play She considers such questions as Is money the answer to raising test scores Are failing schools mainly attended by poor children or are all of our schools failing Do all students need courses in advanced mathematics physics and chemistry Should special education students be expected to meet the same standards as regular students Does one standard curriculum serve the needs and interests of all students Does our current system of schooling undermine the democracy it should support This dynamic book Challenges almost every provision in the No Child Left Behind Act Argues for educationally justifiable interpretations of equality accountability standards testing and choice Suggests an educationally and morally acceptable way of employing an enriched form of tracking to meet the needs of all students Considers what is at stake for our children schools and democracy and offers suggestions for fresh thinking
