Abstract

This study aims to investigate the influence of consumers' attitudes on their purchasing behavior toward green products in Nepal. Using a cross-sectional research design, quantitative data were gathered from 240 consumers in the Chitwan district, aged 20 to 40, through a purposive sampling method. Structural Equation Modeling (SEM) analysis reveals that the value consumers place on green consumption has a significant positive impact on their attitude toward green products, as well as their reasons for and against purchasing them. However, an insignificant negative relationship was observed between the reasons for and against purchasing green products and attitudes toward green products. Additionally, attitudes toward green products were found to have a substantial impact on purchasing behavior. The findings emphasize the potential for aligning consumer preferences with environmental sustainability, creating a win-win situation that not only meet their desires but also contribute to a sustainable environment.

Introduction

Natural calamities like climate change, global warming, resource depletion, and deforestation have escalated with the technological revolution (Mehraj & Qureshi, 2022). Due to intensifying environmental issues, companies are compelled to exhibit their positive image by distributing environmentally beneficial products to environmentally conscious consumers. To address the demand of environment-conscious consumers, companies actively adopt green management strategies and going green perspective as a strategic need in today's immense competitive market. Organizations embracing environment-friendly practices can be seen to comply with institutional pressures and strategic measures (Bansal & Roth, 2000). Moreover, businesses can earn from being green by taking advantage of unique market opportunities, lowering operating costs, and profiting from market innovation (Ambee & Lanoie, 2008; Karki, 2018; Shrestha & Karki, 2022). It has been apparent that a sustainable economy and its development have been integrated as a major business concern. To mitigate this risk, the United Nations developed the SDGs (Sustainable Development Goals) as a global initiative (Sachs et al., 2019).

Nepal with its fragile landscape and vulnerable to natural hazards (Lamsichhane & Neupane, 2022) has prioritized forest conservation and climate change measures for the past twenty-five years (Mahat et al., 2019). Nepal's constitution requires that all policies are aligned with environmental conservation. Government rules, plans,
